

Haifa

A city of coexistence and innovation

Haifa, Israel's third-largest city, is known for its religious diversity, cultural vibrancy, and the stunning Bahá'í Gardens, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. In the late 19th century, Haifa's German Colony became a model of urban planning and coexistence. The Bahá'í Gardens are a symbol of spiritual harmony, with 19 terraces cascading down Mount Carmel. Stroll through the Bahá'í Gardens and take in panoramic views of Haifa Bay.
